

IN THE BEGINNING

1. WHEN YOU WERE YOUNG
(W. Daniels)

When you were a baby
It was so easy
You'd laugh and you'd sing
Like the meadow you'd run through
When you were young
It was so easy
When you were a young man
To accept and believe
In the love that came to you
When you were young
Now you're grown
You're on your own
What can a mama say
Should she remind you
That the world out there
Is not the meadow
You left behind you
And they'll put you in jail
For livin' like Jesus, ya know
They'll push till you stumble
And ya fall
They haven't learned yet
They don't know what ya know
That law without wisdom
Is no law at all, no law at all
A law without wisdom
Is no law at all
And they'll put you in jail
For livin, like Jesus, ya know
What can a mama say
What can a mama say
What can a mama say
What can a mama say
When her baby's
Grown and goin' away
What can a mama say
But she'll let you go now
And trust it that somehow
Your goodness will carry you
Through to the meadows you knew
When you were young
To laugh and to sing
Like the meadow you'd run through
When you were young

c. 1973 GIL MUSIC, BMI
Reprinted by permission